Tustin, CA, 2010 — When many manufacturers in the commercial lighting fixtures industry have been repeatedly shrinking because of weak economic conditions, at least one long-time manufacturer and innovator is demonstrating growth and optimism by moving into a new building in Orange County, California, with more optimal space and much new manufacturing and office equipment.

Tivoli, LLC, founded in 1967, now occupies a modern freestanding 15,136 sq.-ft. one-story masonry plant and office building at 15602 Mosher Avenue, between Route 55 and Redhill Avenue in the city of Tustin, near John Wayne Orange County Airport.

"Demand for energy-conserving lighting products is driving the industry and Tivoli has many. Tivoli more than ever is an innovator and leader in LED-based flexible, adaptable energy-saving linear lighting products for broad architectural/commercial applications, indoors and out," observes Marie Paris, chief executive officer of Tivoli.

"Nobody in the lighting industry has more to offer professional lighting-design and architectural specifiers, commercial building owners and managers, and electrical contractors, than does Tivoli, in terms of LED and other economical, low-carbon lighting fixtures for articulating low- and line-voltage cove lighting; for tube, strand and edge lighting; wall washing; in-cabinet/under-cabinet lighting; rail, seat, floor and step lighting applications," Marie Paris concludes.

The new Tivoli building has a product-application showroom; additional employee work stations; large reception and conferencing rooms; high-bay manufacturing space with dual loading-dock doors for over-the-road trucks; full drive-around capability and easy access to multiple California freeways. Tivoli's new building provides a high-profile, professional environment for clients and customers. Tivoli lighting is available through independent professional lighting sales representatives nationwide.
